One night, his estranged friend Aood calls from Bangkok with the news that he's dying and asks Boss to come home. [L] [SEP]

[L] [SEP]

As the two travel down memory lane throughout Thailand, returning items to Aood's exes, their pasts and reasons for their broken brotherhood are exposed.

But Boss doesn't know the whole story, and when Aood has one last gift to return, it might destroy their relationship forever.

Directors Statement

As a movie director, one thing I haven't had a chance to do on my first 2 films was to explore my true self and transform it into the films' narratives.

But after 3 years working under the guidance of Mr. Wong Kar Wai, it now feels like 'One For The Road' is the first time that I can express my own voice and feel through this medium. It is a chance for me to turn the filmmaking process into therapy, as this movie is about my own experiences and perceptions on life, work, love and relationships.

Even though it is a personal work of mine, I hope this movie can connect with audiences around the world with the international language of storytelling and the universal feeling of human emotions.

Thank you all so much for hopping on board with us, and I really hope that you will enjoy the journey with the movie.

– Baz Poonpiriya

Producer Statement

It has been a privilege to be part of this wonderful journey with Baz and his team. Baz's passion for storytelling is evident in 'One For The Road', and we are excited to share his unique vision with audiences worldwide.

– Wong Kar Wai

Baz Poonpiriya – DIRECTOR

Baz Poonpiriya is recognized as one of the freshest directorial voices in the international film scene today. He originally studied stage directing at Thailand's Srinakharinwirot University, graduating with an MFA. After working in the television advertising industry, he moved to New York to study graphic design at the Pratt Institute. He returned to Thailand in 2011 and worked as a music video director prior to directing his first feature film, the horror thriller COUNTDOWN in 2012. His second feature BAD GENIUS, shot in 2017, opened to great acclaim and proved to be a box office hit across Asia. The film not only went on to win in a record-breaking twelve categories at the 27th Suphannahong National Film Awards (the Thai Oscars), but was also the highest-grossing Thai film of 2017. The film also broke the box-office records for Thai films in several Asian countries, including China, where it earned over $30 million, and in doing so became the most successful Thai film ever in the international marketplace.<sup>[2]</sup><sub>SEP</sub>
